Consumer advisory: Items not affected by peanut product recall

Growing list of unaffected brands on APC website

1/22/2009, Alexandria, VA – As part of its ongoing collaboration with the U.S. Food and Drug Administration (FDA), the American Peanut Council announced today that it has updated its consumer website to include a large and growing list of brands unaffected by a recall of peanut products linked to the Peanut Corporation of America (PCA).

The vast majority of peanut products and foods containing peanut products are not affected by this recall. For a list of products unaffected by the recall, consumers should visit www.peanutsusa.com. For a list of products affected by the recall, consumers should visit www.fda.gov.

As the FDA has directed, consumers should also go to company and brand websites for further information about any specific products. Information about PCA's recall can be found at www.peanutcorp.com. PCA has also set up a toll-free hotline number, 1-877-564-7080, to answer questions.

The APC continues to work closely with regulators and industry leaders to monitor the progress of the recall, with consumer health and safety as its paramount consideration.
